Has Exciting Time Touring Europe—Says America Finest Country in the World.

AND WAS GLAD TO COME BACK HOME

John Thoni and Emil Speihs left New York on July 8th. with the intention of spending several months in Europe, but on the 1st of August we were in Zurich, Switzerland, and the war broke out, so all the Swiss soldiers had to go on the border between France, Germany and Switzerland, and at times we could see them march by, while there was a heavy rain fall lasting several hours, but the Swiss soldiers did not seem to mind it and all appeared to be in the best of spirits, so on August the 5th, we went to see the American Consul at Zurich to see if we could get some passports, for I did not have my American papers, so he fixed us up with several hundred more Americans and I felt greatly relieved, so we found out there were some steamers sailing from Geneva Italy, and thought we would try that route, but before going far we found out passage on steamers cost from $500 up, and we knew that we could not do business with them, so after waiting in Zurich about 15 days the French and Swiss government arranged for a special train consisting of 2 engines and eighteen coaches and 800 passengers which took us via. Geneva, Lyon and Paris and from there to Harve, France, where we boarded the French steamer Rochambeau and sailed on same Aug. 30, for New York, under the American flag, this was steerage passage and there were 300 of us Americans down in the hole and the other 300 that came on the special train went to Liverpool, England. While we were at Ronen, France, letting some of the soldier trains pass, we could see the wounded soldiers in through the windows, some had their hands and arms shot off, and think, they were taking them to Paris, France, for medical attention. We also saw there at Ronen, France, mustering in young boys appearing to be between the ages of 17 and 20 years old. We were also talking to some of the English soldiers at Ronen and they told us in 3 months the war would be over, and when we arrived at the sea coast, Harve, France, we saw many thousands of English soldiers that had just come from England. On the night of the 7th of September we arrived in New York, and when I saw the beautiful statue of liberty on the little island in New York Bay, I thought it was the grandest of things seen on the entire trip, and did not fail to salute. So we all felt grateful to the Swiss and French government and our officials in Washington for the assistance rendered, but promised them we would never give them any more trouble in Europe, as America was good enough for us. I was talking to a good many on our steamer that were given financial aid by the American consul at Zurich and all told me they all received what they needed. So after traveling through Europe and seeing many different railroad systems think the H. D. is the best of them all.

HUMAN VULTURES

From all over the land comes a mighty protest against the high price of foodstuffs.

The national government, state authorities and municipalities are seeking the cause, but without appreciable result.

The government says it is not the fault of the retailer, and unquestionably the government is right. But there the government rests.

And when the federal government, with all the power and resources at its command, cannot solve the problem or check the robbery it is time for the humble citizen to pause and think. The time may even come when it will become necessary for him to act.

And that action should take the course of devising some method whereby the foodstuffs may travel from the producer to the consumer without passing thru too many hands. Under the present system many hands handle them and many months are fed from the profits before they travel the distance from field to consumer, or even to the retailer.

And the consumer pays the bills.

There is no question but that the fault lies with the middlemen, wholesalers, cold storage men and speculators, each one of whom must extract the largest possible margin of profit before he passes it on to the next leech.

And with half a dozen human vultures fastening their talons upon every article of diet, it is not to be wondered at that the public finds itself plucked to the bones.

The retailer and the producer and the consumer should join hands in a determined effort to eradicate the vultures, and reduce the cost of living to something within the bounds of reason.

The fact that a wave of prosperity seems to be ahead of us is no reason why the consuming public should calmly submit to being gouged in the matter of its foodstuffs.

Can anyone in this community suggest a reasonable solution to the problem?

FALL TERM AND SCHOOL PROBLEMS

The opening of the fall terms of school brings the problems of education again to every home. One hears nowadays much complaint of modern school methods. Much of this censure is no doubt just. Yet two many parents criticize without having made any personal observation of the schools.

The public does not comprehend the strain of school work. The parent can barely maintain stable government through vacation. Yet she feels that the teacher can easily subjugate the forty or fifty children that are unloaded on her in the great majority of towns. She does not realize how much diplomacy and enthusiasm it takes to organize these little anarchists into a working body. For these qualities, ten dollars a week is commonly considered fair compensation, and seven of this sum goes for board.

The average teacher has to handle too many children. In a crowded room, discipline alone is a big proposition. Then in a five hours session there is only about minutes per pupil for instruction. The public school child gets his education largely by hearing the others recite. But the others may not ask the questions that bother your boy.

Better work is done in some private schools, but not because people with more money can buy brains for their children. A petted child is a little loafer. The private school teacher has fewer children to look after, consequently she can lead them as individuals, does not have to drive them as a herd.

Tax payers everywhere say the schools have reached the limit of expense. More teachers could not be afforded. Yet somehow many towns afford buff brick and stone buildings, where once wood was pointed at with pride as an ornament.

The teacher drills her overgrown flock through the machine as best she can, grinding them out often on a dead level. But let this be better realized, that more teachers and more time for individual attention would do far more for the boys and girls than the handsomest brick, granite or marble.

HOPKINS COUNTY INVADDED

By Night Riders—The Little Town of Dawson Scene of Much Excitement Saturday Night

THREE MEN GIVEN WHIPPING

An apparently sporadic outbreak of lawlessness in the southern part of Hopkins Co., which occurred last Thursday and Saturday nights, has just come to light and was heard of here and at the county seat today for the first time. It is learned that a company of nightriders visited Dawson Springs on Saturday night and whipped three men who are residents of that place. The names given are William Hamby, a farmer who is said to have been interested in a loose leaf tobacco proposition, Henry Jordon, who is reported to be an unlicensed holiness preacher, and Jordon's son. Reliable reports state that the marauders took charge of the electric light plant about midnight and forced the engineers to shut down, giving him orders at the revolver's point not to start the lights burning until after four o'clock in the morning. The engineer thought it a joke until a rider stuck a pistol into his ribs. The town was dark for the rest of the night. Reports say there were seventy-five men in the party. It is also reported that two men named Johnson were whipped last Thursday night in the neighborhood of Hamby Station in the same section of the county. No reason is suggested for these latter whippings. Hopkins County has generally escaped any such manifestation of outlawry and citizens generally feel outraged and are denouncing these lawless raiders.

WHO SUFFERS

When Billy Booze beats his wife we put him in a cell; and there he leads a pleasant life, and likes it passing well. We fill his plate with wholesome fare, when sounds the dinner gong, and see that while he lingers there his life's a grand, sweet song. We hand him magazines and books, and papers day by day, so he can loaf in cozy nooks and read the hours away. Sweet women call and hand him tracts, and cheer him up so well that he forgets the ugly facts which put him in his cell. Meanwhile his wife, with blackened eye, is toiling o'er a tub, she has to toil, with sob and sigh, to get the children grub. Her husband sentenced by the court earns money when he's free, and, though he is a yellow sport, he feeds his family. Because he filled him self with ale, and started house hold strife, we lock him in our cozy jail and punish kids and wife. He has the rest he's long desired, with time to read and sleep, the while the woman, sick and tired, must work and watch and weep. Thus flows our justice in a rill—the kind we keep on tap; the innocent must pay the bill while sinners have a snap—Wait Mason.

Why Definiteness Pay In Advertising.

Here and there one finds a merchant who says he had tried advertising but never made it pay. The chances are ten to one that he simply needs to study definiteness. The principle of the specific fact and the specific instance, affect all writing and speaking. They make one man's advertising a partial failure, while another's is a money getter.

If one man visits a strange city, he comes back talking something like this: "It was fine, grand splendid." His talk evaporates into vague, general phrases. The people that hear him talk know no more about that city than before. He has few listeners, whatever his subject of conversation may be.

Another man remarks about the same town, that it is full of buildings 20 stories high, that the streets were so crowded he had to wait ten minutes at one cross walk to get over, and that people were always in a hurry and the street railway said "Step lively."

After such a man has talked a few moments, you get some idea about the place he describes. You see it with your own eyes.

Every man who ever made a success as a newspaper writer has that you must give personal incidents and actual happenings to make any kind of news article interesting. If the reader can't see the thing with his own eyes, the copy won't sell.

Just the same in advertising. If you merely say "Best stock in town" the reader may or may not believe you. Try picking out the best values in your store, give a few details about them so the purchaser can get some idea what they are, then name the price. The reader then sees the bargain with his own eyes is interested, and feels a desire to buy.

That is all there is to good advertising. It does not require wit, nor literary nor technique skill. Just "come down to brass tacks." Give the plain facts about an article as you would talk to a buyer over the counter. Try it and see!

I was down sick with womanly trouble, and my mother advised several different treatments, but they didn't seem to do me any good. I lingered along for three or four months, and for three weeks, I was in bed, so sick I couldn't bear for any one to walk across the floor.

My husband advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I have taken two bottles of Cardui, am feeling fine, gained 15 pounds and do all of my housework. Friends hardly know me, I am so well."

MAY PUT BAN ON TOBACCO

Virginia Drys Threaten to Follow Liquor Legislation With Anti-Tobacco Laws.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 14.—The campaigns for and against statewide prohibition in Virginia are assuming an importance that they have taken out in few other states, except, perhaps, California, which sees in state-wide prohibition the destruction of its immense grape-growing industry. In Virginia it is the tobacco industry that is menaced, for the prohibitionists have, in that state, declared their hostility to tobacco also.

They threaten if they succeed in passing the prohibitory liquor laws at the coming election, they will at once begin a campaign for the regulation or suppression of tobacco. That this is not an idle dream nor "an invention of the enemy" is manifest by the fact that the Virginian, the most powerful and influential "dry" newspaper in the state, justifies the hostility of the state-wide prohibitionists to tobacco and says in substance that the sale of tobacco must be regulated because the weed is offensive to some people. In the opinion of the Virginian such regulation is necessary "to protect persons who do not like beer from those who do." Thus Virginia may become not only dry but smokeless. Naturally the tobacco growers and those dependent upon the industry are up in arms against their new danger while a few of the prohibitionists say that their fellow reformers are going a bit too fast and may spoil every thing.

EVANSVILLE WILL HOLD STYLE SHOW

Elaborate Display of New Merchandise Sept. 23 to 26

Of unusual interest to the people of the cities surrounding Evansville is the Fall Style Show which will be held at the Pocket metropolis Sept. 23 to 26. The fact that the fall festival is to be held right in the face of a supposed business depression shows that the merchants of that city are awake and alive to the possibilities of the coming year.

In preparing for the Fall Style Show the members of the Style Show Association have spared no expense and intend to give a festival that will surpass anything of its kind ever staged in southern Indiana. Many ideas were gleaned from the Spring Style Show that will be improved upon in making the fall festival a bigger success and the mistakes made in staging the Spring show will be eliminated.

While the primary idea of the Fall Style Show is to display to the best advantage the wares that the Evansville merchants have for the coming season, it is also the intention of the business men of that city to show to the cities of southern Indiana, western Kentucky and southern Illinois that they have every reason to believe that business is going to be on a solid basis this coming year. Nothing will go farther to create a feeling of security than for the business men of a city to come out and spend money to interest friends and patrons.

Attractive four-colored posters, the main color carrying out the color scheme adopted by the Style Show Association, have been distributed throughout the district. These posters are different in design from any ever used as an advertising medium by the association and are of the kind that add to the appearance of a shop window.

Men, as well as women of Evansville and of surrounding cities will be interested in going over all the fall styles in apparel and home-furnishings that will be found in the windows and stores of Evansville merchants. Hints and rumors have been flying thick and fast to the effect that the war might cause a dearth in fashion hints from gay France and that American women might be forced to wear gowns designed on a "Made in America" plan. From the glimpses given out in advance of the fall fashions it is safe to say that Paris must have played an important part in designing many of the fall costumes. Militarism shows in many of the tailored suits, the cloaks, coats and hats. One gets a hint of the Cosack, the Uhlan and the Lancer in looking over the array of bright colored fabrics that go to make up lady's costume for 1914.

As the Style Show Association has decided to award prizes this year to the best trimmed window in each line of merchandise, instead of classifying by size, some excellent effects will be brought out. There will be a natural rivalry among the various stores in each line to make the best showing and the women who have been selected to award the prizes may have to look long and carefully to decide which should be first.

In accordance with their usual plan, the members of the Merchants' Rebate Association have arranged to refund fares of patrons so it will cost nothing to come to Evansville and choose from the great variety of styles the season is offering. In addition numerous entertainments have been planned. The theaters will give special programs that week and as an extra feature Ruth St. Dennis, famous dancer, with her company will be at the Wells Bijou on Sept. 23, the opening date of the Fall Style Show. No one will regret accepting Miss Evansville's invitation to her Fall open house or the time spent in going over her offerings for the fall and winter, 1914-15.

The Last of Her Race.

With the death of the passenger pigeon last week at the Cincinnati Zoological Garden the species becomes extinct. For six years it has been known that this lone pigeon, a female, thirty years old, was the last one of her race. Now that she is gone another black chapter in the natural history of this country closes. Eleven species of North American wild birds have been wiyed out of existence by man. Twenty-three other species are rapidly diminishing and some are approaching the vanishing point. Bird conservation may prevent the extermination of other species, saving to the world these remnants that would otherwise be swept away as has the wild or passenger pigeon.

To be Given the Most Popular Teacher in Hopkins County

WHO WILL BE THE LUCKY TEACHER TO WIN THIS WONDERFUL VACATION NEXT YEAR?

The Bee has completed arrangements to send the most popular teacher on a four weeks' trip to the two big expositions in California next year, the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Diego. The Bee realizes that a trip of this kind will benefit our teachers greatly because 1915 will be a historic year, a red letter year not only in American History, but in the history of the world. An event of a lifetime—1915—marks the completion of the greatest achievement of man in the history of the world—the Panama Canal. The completion of this achievement will be celebrated in San Francisco by the greatest exposition the world has ever seen: The Panama-Pacific International Exposition, in which the countries of the world will participate on an unprecedented scale.

The free trip offered will be educational and instructive as well as entertaining. The routes traversed to the Expositions and return will be through the "Fairland of the West"—a magnificent trip by rail across the continent, through scenic New Mexico and Arizona where are found Indian pueblos, petrified forests, snow-capped mountain peaks and titanic chasms. The Grand Canyon of Arizona is the world's most sublime scenic wonder, miles wide, a mile deep and painted in all the colors of the rainbow; the old missions in California, with their sandaled priests and Spanish customs; the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego; Los Angeles with its many attractive sights and Orange Groves; then the great San Joaquin Valley to San Francisco and the Exposition.

On the way back via Nevada, the Great Salt Lake and the Land of Mormons, Pike's Peak, and the mountains of picturesque Colorado with their awe-inspiring grandeur. The trip of a lifetime. From an educational standpoint, the trip is truly a wonderful one.

THE PLAN

Here is the plan the Bee has prepared for sending the most popular teacher on this four weeks' vacation. Beginning in this issue the Bee will publish nomination coupons for our readers to use in nominating their favorite teachers. Cut out these coupons, fill in with the name of the teacher you would like to have sent on this big trip. The nominations will be held open for three weeks. The names of the nominees will be published each week.

Each subscriber to the Special Clubbing Combination Offer will be entitled to Mileage Stamps. Each stamp represents one mile of the journey to San Francisco. Ten Mileage Stamps will be given with each subscription, these in turn can be given to your favorite teacher, who will be provided with an International Mileage Book and the teacher who succeeds in getting the largest number of the Mileage Stamps in her book by the close of the contest will be awarded the Free Trip to the Exposition.

To make it easy to get enough mileage stamps to win this great vacation trip, the Bee has arranged with four of the best and most widely read magazines, Woman's World, Household, People's Popular Monthly and Farm Life. We will offer a year's subscription to all four magazines, together with one year to the Bee, at the special price of $1.25 for all five. Each order entitles the subscribers to ten Mileage Stamps.

Send the name of the teacher you have picked out to go on this vacation, then help her to earn the trip by having your friends subscribe for this big bargain and get as many Mileage Stamps as possible. Scholars, get busy and secure new subscribers for this remarkable combination clubbing offer. Help send your teacher to the Exposition.

RULES OF CONTEST

Any school teacher in Hopkins county can be nominated. Each issue will contain nomination blanks. Fill in the name of your favorite and mail or leave the nomination blank at our office. Every subscription to the Special Combination Clubbing offer will entitle the subscriber to Ten Mileage Stamps to give to his favorite teacher. Mileage will be given for combination orders only; no mileage will be allowed for a separate subscription for any one of the five publications in the combination. Subscription blanks will be furnished to the contestants and their friends at this office.

There are no restrictions as to territory in securing combination orders and mileage. The date of the close of the contest will be announced later. Ample time will be given, as the Exposition does not open until February, 1915.

The teacher having the greatest number of stamps in her mileage book will be declared the winner. For any additional information address, Free Trip Exposition Bureau, c/o Earlington, Ky.

Nominate your favorite teacher on this blank, then mail or leave at Bee Office.

A Change for the Better in the New Fall Fashions

In the Sept. Woman's Home Companion, which is a fashion forecast number, Grace Margaret Gould, the well known fashion editor, presents a great array of ideas and suggestions which she introduces with the following general comment on the new fall fashions:

"Good friends, a change for the better has taken place in the fashions!

IN ALL OUR NEIGHBORHOOD

There is Hardly a Woman Who Does Not Rely Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Princeton, Ill.—"I had inflammation, hard headaches in the back of my neck and a weakness all caused by female trouble, and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with such excellent results that I am now feeling fine. I recommend the Compound and praise it to all. I shall be glad to have you publish my letter. There is scarcely a neighbor around me who does not use your medicine."—Mrs. J. F. JOHNSON, R. No. 4, Box 30, Princeton, Illinois.

Experience of a Nurse. Poland, N.Y.—"In my experience as a nurse I certainly think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a great medicine. I wish all women with female troubles would take it. I took it when passing through the Change of Life with great results and I always recommend the Compound to all my patients if I know of their condition in time. I will gladly do all I can to help others to know of this great medicine."—Mrs. HORACE NEWMAN, Poland, Herkimer Co., N. Y.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The only way to get the genuine New Home Sewing Machine is to buy the machine with the name NEW HOME on the arm and in the legs. This machine is warranted for all time. No other like it No other as good The New Home Sewing Machine Company, ORANGE, MASS.

"The American woman this fall will be permitted to wear clothes that fit her figure, and take real steps like a sensible human being, as she has honestly in her heart longed to do, appearances to the contrary notwithstanding. "Let me tell you just exactly what has happened! "The spineless woman has become a stately creature. That tired feeling has retired, and loose and careless has made way for lithe and careful. "The slouch has retreated, as it is the very nature of a slouch to retreat, while the new style, trim and erect, has marched in to victory. "Women are to have backbones this season. They are to have arms again, clearly defined ones, I mean. "Hips are coming into their own. They are to be fashionable. "And the waist line is to put in an appearance again. The dear old waist line, which brings back memories of the tight, prim
